Prologue.

THIS FIRST annual Phillips Andover has ever seen, is issued. The present volume is dissimilar from any previous publications of the school. It is the pioneer number of what we are confident will prove to be a series of successful books. It is our hope that in "setting the pace" for our successors, our production may stand for a worthy example.

We believe that the school will never regret the giving up of the old termly Mirror for a yearly periodical; and also that the annual will give opportunities for literary and artistic work, which could be found in no other issue.

It has been our aim to present in these pages a picture of the current school year, seen in its many and varied aspects. In fulfilling this wish it has been our pleasure to come before our readers not only as the court jester, but as the chronicler, the sage, and the minstrel. Through these leaves then, we pose before you in these impersonations, ever trusting that our play will please its audience. Our aim has been to make these contents characteristic, and this quality we hope the book has attained.

The evening of our work has come, and the time is at hand, when we shall submit for your criticism THE MASQUE. It has been a busy period, since our union, but we almost regret that the work, which has been so much a part of our lives these months, is so near its completion. At the beginning of our undertaking we encountered an array of hindrances and discouragements which were well nigh of a sort to try the patience of a Job, but we believe that our ambition has been realized.

To the members of the school we are chiefly indebted for aid in our labors. We desire individually and unitedly to express our gratitude for the generous contributions; and while our waste basket has been several times filled, the quality of the contributions as a whole, particularly those of the Art Department, has been such as to reflect great credit upon the school.

We are also exceedingly thankful for the kindly interest and the business-like treatment that we have received from the various firms which have executed the mechanical part of our book.

We trust that THE MASQUE, although not perfect, may take its place in the line of school publications, and always remain an upholder of true Andover spirit.

Graduation Honors.

The school will heartily appreciate the new system of bestowing honors. It is far more liberal and just than the old device, and it is to be considered as one of the happiest steps of advancement that mark the school year. The old method lacked fairness, and often discouraged rather than encouraged a fellow to do his maximum amount of work.

Those who oppose the new measure argue that it will tend to specialization, yet here there seems little danger of that. There are sufficient spurs back of a man to keep him from neglecting considerably any one of his studies, in order to give his whole attention to specializing. There are some fellows who do not have it in them to excel in certain lines, but who have a natural talent and an ambition to do conscientious work on other parts of their courses, at the same time not neglecting those studies in which they are weak. These were the students who were formerly ignored on the honor roll, and whom the new system is designed to benefit.

The new course may claim to give an exact account of the proficiency of each man, who is to be debited or credited in each item. There will be a constant inducement to be represented in just as many credits as is possible, and yet no one will feel a hopeless discouragement hanging over him, of being excluded from the account because he happens to be weak in one or two studies.

The general scholarship of the school will not suffer; it will be raised, without doubt. The new scheme is not perfect, but it is such an improvement over the old method, that it cannot fail of meeting with general approbation.

A New Gymnasium.

Let every fellow interest himself this summer in procuring material addition for the Gymnasium Fund. There is no other lack which the past year leaves so manifest. Our present gymnasium is not only inadequate but faulty in nearly every other respect, a disgrace to the school. Before a new Annual Board take up their pens, we hope the walls of a beautiful new structure will be rising. It can be done if every man does his duty. We are not wanting in friends—we need not be wanting for dollars. A new gymnasium is an imperative need. If we work with all our might, we can have it well on the road to completion within one year! There are many people to aid us.

United Athletics.

The school has united its athletic interests this year into a main organization, or union, and has adopted the constitution and by-laws of this association. The objects of the new arrangements are several. It is hoped that through it there will be a more judicious expenditure and an evener condition of athletic moneys. The financial responsibility is vested in an alumnus treasurer and the executive authority rests in the governing board of the association, consisting of the heads of the four departments.

Many evils of the old single management system will be corrected by this consolidation. We venture to say that better results will be shown for the money expended than before. The new plan is at the same time simple and comprehensive.

Paid Trainers.

The abolition of paid trainers in our athletics is a change, the results of which are at present impossible to foretell. Money compensation in athletic sports has usually been considered to debase them; but whether this is applicable to paid trainers, or whether they tend to professionalize amateur teams, are questions at present widely discussed.

These problems have to us a somewhat different bearing than they do to the college. The athletic element among college alumni is much easier to procure for coaching than it is among preparatory alumni. Yale's ascendancy in foot ball, for instance, is attributed in part to the horde of old Yale foot ball men which gather in New Haven each fall, to give their time to the Varsity team. Our own alumni players on the other hand, are for the most part either at college or are engaged in occupations from which it is impossible for them to leave. It is doubtful if one of them could be procured to handle any of our teams for a protracted time.

* * * * *

The foot ball team is chiefly affected by the new rule. Little or no paid coaching has ever been expended on the other athletic organizations, and whatever benefits have accrued from it, may be easily made up by the occasional visits of alumni. On the eleven however, the material has always been worked up by a skilful coacher. No such teams as the Academy has produced within recent years could have ever been put forth without the instruction of a trainer—a man who had made the game a study and who had given the team constant attention for the larger part of the season.

Coaching in foot ball is a vital necessity, and must be chiefly done by some other than the captain. Mr. Walter Camp says of it, that "it ought to be a preparation by means by which men will at a certain time arrive at the best limits of their muscular strength and activity, at the same time preserving that equilibrium most conducive to normal health." This shows how important it is, and that the team should receive constant supervision. Who but a paid trainer is willing to give this instruction to our eleven? The question is a serious one, for upon it rests the present perfection which we have developed.

It seems to us that the ill effects of employing a paid trainer are not of sufficient weight to resort to a change that must necessarily result in decreasing the foot ball quality of the two schools. Much of the interest in our annual interscholastic games originates in this perfected play. It is to be sincerely hoped that an able coacher may be procured, who will give his services and time to the team gratis, but the outlook at present is not the most encouraging.

Retrospect.

The past year hasn't been the most remarkable one in our history, nor has it been the most insignificant. There have been few startling occurrences, yet there have been many changes. The school has taken up even more than last year, a spirit of progression and of healthy competition. The beginning of many steps for the better has originated.

When the bell once more rang, last September, after its summer's rest, many new faces were seen in the hall, and many old ones missed. The enrollment still did a little better than last year's big increase, and it took little time for the wheels of the school to be running smoothly.

Four new men began their duties on the Faculty and since then two assistants have been added. A younger element has been inaugurated among our instructors, and we believe that the change is for the better. We venture to say that the work of the Faculty, in but few instances, would suffer in comparison with that of last year.

Our school is yet wanting in equipment, but our friends are constantly working for further buildings, and the fruits of their labors are apparent on every side. It is difficult for us to show our appreciation of these improvements, but any one who has contributed to them may rest assured that the school is grateful to him for his generosity, however small it may be.

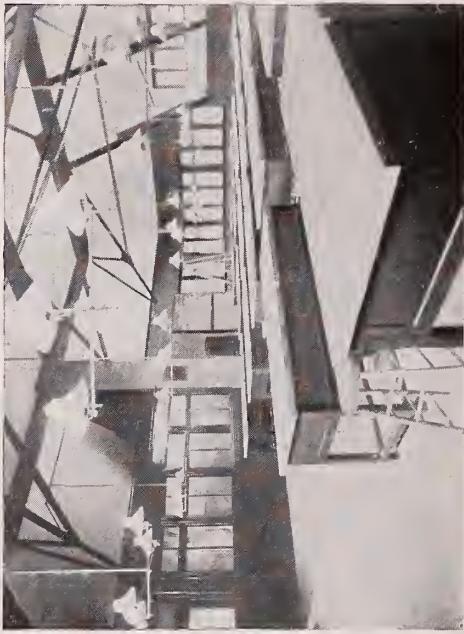

Four substantial brick cottages—"The Taylor," "The Andover," "The Bancroft" and "The Draper"—have been completed and opened to students during the year. These dormitories supply a long felt need. They are tasteful, cheerful and sanitary. More of them will in time take the place of those bane of beauty—the Commons.

The new Science Building was opened for general use in the fall. It has been appreciated more each day since its completion. It offers facilities for laboratory work in chemistry and physics which couldn't be procured before. Its lecture room and recitation rooms are admirable, and its systems of heating and ventilation are the most approved.

The Athletic House, built through the efforts of the Athletic Association and opened during the winter, is a valuable addition to the Campus. It supplies one of the deficiencies of the gymnasium—that of baths. It has already proven a blessing to the base ball and track athletic teams and also to the many fellows who couldn't before procure the use of hot or cold baths.

Both Philo and Forum received a boom in their memberships during the winter term, and the work of the two societies for the spring has been above the average of the last term. Several public entertainments have been given by both organizations, but there is still a manifest need of better programmes and of more thorough preparation in the weekly meetings.

The Literary Mirror and The Phillipian have continued on nearly the same lines as last year, except for a few improvements. The Mirror has contained some able articles from alumni and the Phillipian has issued an artistic anniversary number. The future editors will find room for further excellence in both periodicals.

II. No fire will be kept in the room owing to its close proximity to Room 2, of the Academy building, which is always at fever heat.

IV. If anyone finds a paper mutilated he is expected to replace it with an unmutilated copy. It must be remembered that owing to their unusual excellence, the Phillipian and the Mirror are overburdened with exchanges.

COURSE OF LECTURES!

ANDOVER TOWN HALL.

How to soar in the flowery realms of oratory. (Original anecdotes.)

My experiences as a “dead” sport. (Illustrated by snap-shots taken after dark.)

How to become a Wit, a Crank, or a Philosopher. (My personal success in this line will be dwelt upon.)

Delivered by the witty-serious, foolish Prof. Jefferis. The lectures are worth a fortune to anyone desiring to hear the world-wide-known orator.

RESERVED SEATS FOR TWO,	-	-	-	-	15 CENTS.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

Undoubtedly the Andover public will be somewhat surprised to find in this department no mention of Mr. R. M. Lester. It was at the personal request of Mr. Lester that we avoided the mentioning of his name, and we make this explanation in order that our action may be more fully appreciated by our readers.

To the Fem. Sems.

The Abbot girls come here to learn,
Fair faces you may see,
They learn their French and Latin quick,
But they twist their A. U. V's.
Down at Smith Hall on any day
Young ladies shy and pert
From English Commons may be seen,
Especially those who flirt.

If by chance on Sunday morn
You're passing down School Street,
Just twenty minutes after ten,
There's a sight that can't be beat.
One hundred maidens, oh, so fair,
Accompanied by their teachers,
Meander down to church afar,
For they are such good creatures.

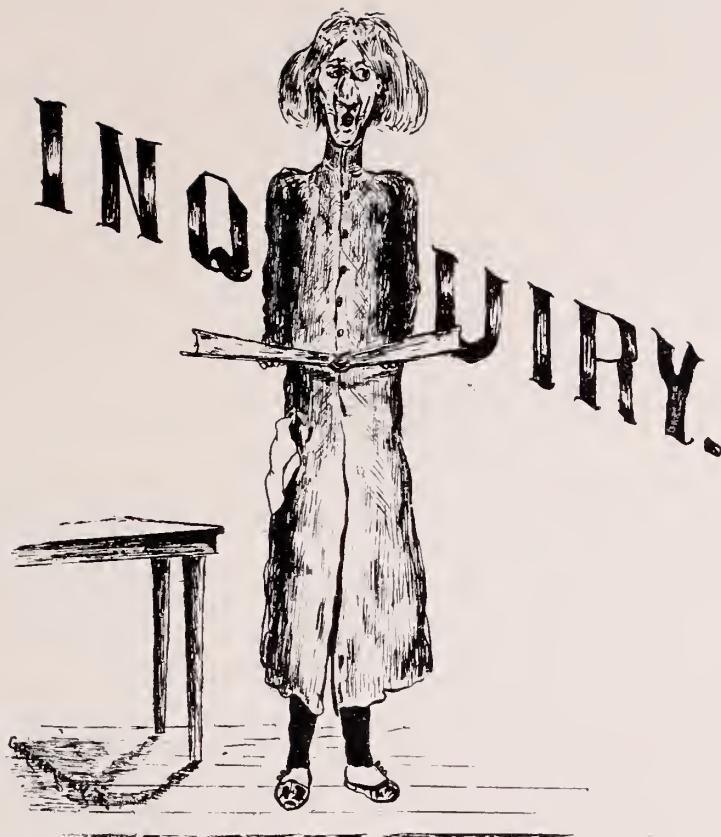

When on School Street, a pleasant day,
The "Cads" they used to see
Fem. Sems. walk by the Phillips grounds
Off on a strict Q. T.
But Miss W—— found it out
One day at half-past four,
And that must be the reason why
They now walk there no more.

On Monday evening if you go
To the Town Hall just at eight,
The laughing girls come fluttering in
And they do look just great.
The watchful teachers follow after,
The young ladies they to see,
But the Fem. Sems. do not seem to care
For all their faculty.

One night, not many months ago,
Some boarders at Smith Hall
Planned to have a jolly spread,
With the teachers out of call.
With their feet they made no silent tread ;
"A noise," the teacher cried,
And that was the very last spread,
Those naughty Fem. Sems. tried.

Philomathean Society.

A BRIEF SKETCH.

HE Philomathean Society was organized because there was a real need for it. Its founders had in view not so much the bearing which the Society was to have on the school life in the future as the immediate necessities of the case. Indeed, as was said at the Semi-Centennial Celebration held in 1875, no one was more surprised at its steady enlargement, both in members and influence, than the founders themselves.

The Society was organized in 1825 by Horatio B. Hackett, Dr. Ray Palmer, and others, with the idea in view of offering to the whole school such opportunities for literary and parliamentary drill as were then confined to members of the Social Fraternity, a senior society. That the need was a real one is shown by the fact that within a few years the Social Fraternity was discontinued, and Philo became the representative literary society of the school.

One of the first acts of the new organization was the formation of a library, which grew in size and value in about the same ratio as the society itself. Although in 1827 the meetings were discontinued for a term, the seeming reverse was followed by a renewal of interest, which soon brought the society up to and beyond its former plane. It is uncertain in what year the society commenced publishing the Mirror, but it existed in 1837-'38 and since that time advanced from a manuscript sheet, read before the society by the editors, to a handsome publication issued termly. This in turn has given way to the new Mirror, published by the school, and its place has been taken by the MASQUE, modelled somewhat on the old lines of contents with the literary portion omitted. This latter change took place in 1892, so that the old magazine attained the venerable age of fifty years. It is interesting to look over the valued old records and read the list of former members who have since made names for themselves and for the school they represent. Among the names we find those of Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, Joseph Cook, George B. Loring, Josiah Quincy and others of note. Philo is proud of these names on her roll, and she draws fresh hope and enthusiasm from the record of these bygone days.

It is surely a significant fact that members of Philo, who have in after life attained high places in the various professions, attribute much of their power to the meetings of this society. Enthusiasm ran high then. The dusky room in the old stone Academy was crowded nightly, and debates were frequently carried over to succeeding meetings. Many a man owes the development of his keen wit or ready tongue to those meetings, which seemed to the participants, at any rate, of just as much importance as those of more dignified assemblies.

Those days are mere memories now, and we of the present generation are confronted with the needs of Philo as it is to-day. One thing we are forced to admit, and that is that we have not the entire and hearty support of the school. For this we are heartily sorry. The school needs Philo, but Philo needs the school just as surely. What the reasons for this lack of interest are it is not the purpose of this sketch to discuss. The fact remains. Through all these years the society has been advancing in both size and reputation. It remains for us and those after us to determine what shall be the record of the society in the years to come. Philo needs the encouragement and effort of every earnest fellow in the school. Surely this is not too much to ask from the young men who make up the Phillips Academy of to-day.

CORNELIUS P. KITCHEL, '93, Ex-President.

A History of the Class of '93.

EN have spent years upon the history of some great man. I have before me a list of ninety-eight very illustrious persons; ample food for a history, but little time and less ability. Then, too, some of the boys have had sore eyes and gone home to receive their mother's care, so I cannot speak of them. Nevertheless, far too many remain to touch individually, so I got some cards charged down town and have written the remnants names on these and asked a Middler to mix them up. He called it shuffling, and asked me if I wanted them stacked, but I replied that I preferred to have them scattered out a little on the table with the names down. Now that's fair, so if you don't get mentioned you will know that it's because Mc says I must brace up.

We have all noticed that large things are generally on top. That is the case this time for Sawyer's card was just turned over. Mr. Sawyer comes from New Hampshire, far too small a state for so large a man, so he came to Andover. He has outgrown the town two or three times and had to leave in consequence. He has been manager of the foot ball team, president of his class, has taken second prize in a fat man's race and excels in rope climbing and playing Romeo. I forgot to say that no third prize was given in the fat man's race the year Mr. Sawyer took part. As there were only two in the contest it seemed hardly fair to give him both second and third prizes although he deserved them.

Mr. Crosby comes next. It seems strange that some fellows get a reputation which they do not deserve. Most people think Crosby is lazy, but this is a mistake. During his youth he showed so much energy that his native city, Grand Rapids, Mich., was named after him. He's been resting since he came to Andover. The gentleman is an artist of considerable merit. That picture where the small boy is represented, "What are the wild waves saying," is one of his productions.

As usual Williams is never left out and so I find his card. This man is a hard worker. Is managing editor of the Phillipian, has won first Draper prize, second Means and so on. No doubt he has a great career if it could only be found, however, this much has been ascertained. For eight years previous to his coming to Andover he worked on a perpetual motion machine and seems to have perfected the instrument in his own tongue.

Lapham comes from Glens Falls, New York. This illustrates the greatness of the empire state. They can produce anything and everything there. Mr. Lapham is captain of our athletic team, has won a quarter-mile race against Exeter, sings on the glee club and visits the Fem. Sems. Some time ago he had some lady friends visiting him and wishing to impress them with his importance he invited them to visit Abbot Academy a certain day to see an eclipse of the sun. When they arrived the janitor informed them that the phenomenon had passed, but Mr. Lapham, with his usual presence of mind, assured the ladies that it would be all right, for, as the lady who taught astronomy was a special friend of his, he would have her begin all over again.

Mr. Wentz, whose card comes to light next, is a man of wide experience. He has been travelling most of his life-time but has left his hand organ and monkey at home this year. Wentz comes from the great Pennsylvania switch back-town, Mauch Chunk, and has a very high record as a student there. When only two months old he could talk his nurse to sleep. At the age of three months everyone predicted that he would be the coming American humorist, but as, according to the old theory, every one changes into something entirely different every seven years, so he has not fulfilled their expectations.

No one is surprised to find Jennings anywhere and so we find him here. Harry comes from Harri(e)sburg. Before coming to Andover he acted as crier for an auction store. His principal business here has been to slug in foot ball and tell the opponents what they can't do in base ball. He has been president of his class, quarter-back on our foot ball team, and plays second base at base ball. He is universally considered the best Sunday School scholar in the school and puts so much time on his lessons Saturday evenings that he is very apt to go to sleep on Sunday mornings.

Would Be Plato, that's strange ! I believe that Middler has played a joke on me and put in an extra card, but he says that name means the business manager of the Phillipian, and as he is an easy man to talk about I'll let it go. Mr. Parker has occupied the position of seconder of motions in Philo. and Forum for the past six years, barring out a short intermission when he was obliged to leave school on account of pains in his neck. He is without doubt the best authority on high kick and Lawrence, in the academy, and is said to be an excellent ten-mile runner, having cultivated his wind as a vender of patent medicines in the west.

It would be a shame to leave out such a man as Smyth, so it must be Providence that has brought him to light. Mr. Smyth is president of the board of Editors of the Mirror and hails from New Haven. He enjoys the distinction of being the only man who has had five Means essays accepted in a simple contest, but Andover quite shocks him at times and he has often been heard to say that he expects to pass his life in Andover because "Mamma always said I would end up at some bad place."

We are always glad to have Millard send in his card but that is not the case this time because he is class historian and has a chance to get even. Mr. Millard comes from Tarrytown, New York, where he has spent considerable time in evading Jay Gould's dogs. Last summer he trained James Corbett for the great fight in which he whipped John L. Sullivan. He is an athlete of ability, having won laurels for the school in Tennis, Foot Ball and Base Ball. His fondness for the ladies is quite striking, and until recently he had a great habit of looking upward. Now that he has discontinued this practice we are lead to believe that he has found some star which fulfills his long felt want.

Not being accustomed to attending the races I do not see how I can well say anything of the class jockeys, nevertheless, Mr. Auten, one of the most scientific men in that line in the school, refuses to let his card pass unnoticed. He comes from Illinois, where he has a great reputation for fishing on Sunday, but he has turned over a new leaf and he now sleeps on that day.

Westfield, New York has furnished us with some wonderful beings but none more so than George Skinner. Since he has been in Andover he has acted as missionary to Latin Commons and was once Treasurer of Inquiry. It has always been his intention to become a missionary to Cuba, but he has given up this long cherished ambition on account of the high winds on that island. There is a very sad blot on George's life. His girl jilted him when he was very young, but he will tell you all about it if you ask him, as I will only give you a little extract of a poem he has written describing her and has given me for publication.

"Oh, Hilda! thou most glorious orb,
Thou illuminatest the heavens with thy bright rays;
Thy beams pierce my heart!"

At the same time that Chicago was planning for the World's Fair she sent her laziest man to Andover in order that the Exposition might be a success. Mr. Stone was elected to the Phillipian board for writing day dreams. Chosen toast master because he is too lazy to talk too much and has been president of his class. Nothing further can be said because he has been too tired to do anything.

This card has warped into the shape of a base ball and Murphy's name appears. The card has fallen in line with him as almost everything does with which he comes in contact. Murphy comes from Kansas and is a cow boy. This is the second year he has captained our base ball team. His fondness for Greek and Geometry is only surpassed by his love for ghosts and cake walks. He is generally quite temperate in his habits but you will usually find him full of tacks.

Vermont is noted for its butter and Gilmore. Mr. Gilmore lives in Rutland. No one seems to know of his doing anything at home. He has served his class as president, plays on the Banjo Club and resigned from the Phillipian board because it was too much work to carry home an extra copy of the Phillipian twice a week. Now he is serving as one of the base ball managers and is pitcher on the McCurdy house nine. The third story window is the home plate. He's lazy, but, with a smile for his friends and a smile at his foes, everything Gilmore says usually goes.

It seems sad that no bad boys names are on these cards. One can always say more about people's faults than about their good points, however, the air in Andover is rather dry for boys who do anything wrong. Russel has sent his name in for fear it would be left out. Mr. Russel is the man the boys call Pope, but notwithstanding his resemblance to the interrogation point poet, he enjoys the distinction of being the handsomest man on the Glee Club. He has been working on an imitation of a thunder storm for some years and up at Marland's we can always tell when he has been practicing it because the milk turns sour.

It's half past seven now and I must go down town after the mail, so good——. By the way, if there is anything in here that you don't like please remember that it's not original. Good-bye.

For the next four years he was principal of Appleton Academy at Mont Vernon, N. H., and for three years following a student of theology, first in Union Seminary, New York city, and then in Andover, where he was graduated in 1867. In the spring of 1867 for four months he taught the Latin for half the middle class in Phillips Academy, as successor to Dr. Isaac Bridgman. In May of that year he was ordained to the ministry, and became the principal of Lookout Mountain Educational Institutions, in Tennessee, where he remained five years. The year 1872-'73 was spent at the University of Halle in Germany, and in travel, and in March of that year he was elected principal of the Academy. Returning to this country August 1st, he entered at once upon his duties and has served up to the present time without interruption, except for one serious illness and two vacations abroad. He became a master of arts at Dartmouth in 1864, a doctor of philosophy in the University of the State of New York in 1874, a doctor of letters at Williams in 1891, and a doctor of laws at Yale in 1892. The Blunt House Directory.

I

In Andover a house there is ;
 Long, wide, red-roofed and “hoary” ;
The fare is good, the lodgers swells,
 True sports on every story.
Of course you’ll guess its name is Blunt’s,
 Long handed down in glory.

II

On the lower floor lives “Gentle Rene,”
 A scientific freak,
He made the Honor Roll last term,
 And twenty tongues can speak,
His specialty is tomahawks,
 Which he with care doth seek.

III

Next Morgan Davis, Harlem “sport,”
 Who lives on a bad street,
The “furder” down the street you go,
 The “tougher” men you meet,
And the house of Morgan Davis, is
 The last house on your beat.

IV

Across the hall lives “Billtown Bill,”
 The Blunt House fashion-plate.
It takes an hour to brush his hair ;
 At least, so some will state,
Through constant practice while away,
 He now knows how to “skate.”

V

In the right-hand corner at the front,
 Pope Russel doth abide.
A man of brawn ; his manly chest,
 Is well-nigh two yards wide.
He’s now engaged, and marries soon,
 With Julie as his bride.

VI

On the upper floor you'll find the cream
Of Andover's elite.
In the left-hand corner, southern front,
Resides "Chicago Pete."
Though his brain is small, he knows it all,
For nerve he can't be beat.

VII

Just opposite our ladies'-man,
Dear "Inky Lew", doth dwell.
No Fem. Sem. there in Draper Hall
Who does not know him well,
He's neat and natty in his dress,
At times, a howling swell.

VIII

C. F. A. Cushing you will find
In the next room down the hall,
A mighty plunger eke is he,
In person, stout and tall.
To get a piece of apple pie,
He'd climb a ten-foot pole.

IX

On the other side lives "Pittsburgh Mac" ;
A true blue sport is he,
He's "deer" to every Fem. Sem. heart,
As anyone can see,
As umpire he fills all with awe,
For he stands full six foot three.

X

Next "Kidzie" Neal, the Blunt House babe ;
A pretty little lad,
Though innocent and meek at first,
He's getting really bad,
To see him swig his (ginger) beer,
Is something truly sad.

XI

"Kid" "Bivvy" Norton greets you next,
"Musician" known to fame ;
Whose head is not so strong but that
He oft forgets his name,
The apple-tree'd be dead ere now,
If his tracks ran just the same.

XII

Last, "Fanny" Conant, Bergner, Brown ,
Their loss we all deplore,
For at the Faculty's request
We see them here no more,
"We mourn the dear departed ones ;
Not dead, but gone before."

The Cottages.

Among the improvements of the present year, none are more gladly hailed than the new dormitories. The Commons have stood the trial and strain of more than half a century. Many are the old graduates of Phillips, that look back to their Commons rooms "where the wind whistled through at will."

One of the best features of the Taylor, Andover and Bancroft cottages is the most excellent view that can be seen from their windows. The rolling hills of the western landscape extend away towards the horizon, where the peaks of Wachusett and Monadnock may be seen faintly outlined against the sky.

The Taylor.

The Taylor was the first of the cottages to be built. It has large spacious study rooms with two ample bed-rooms connected. It is heated by the indirect radiation system. There are baths with hot and cold water in the cellar. We must not overlook the fire places which are found in all the cottages and contribute cheer to the rooms during the winter season.

The Draper.

The Draper cottage on the opposite side of the campus now stands where the second house of English Commons used to be. The cottage in general appearance and plan is the same as the Taylor, with a few changes. But as the cottage is rented at a cheaper rate, there is no furnace to be connected with it. It will be ready for use next term.

The Andover.

It is doubtful if the citizens of Andover could have chosen a more appropriate token of their regard for her famous school, than the cottage they have donated to its equipment, and they may justly feel proud of their gift. The building is situated on an elevated knoll and presents a commanding appearance. Its architecture is more pleasing than that of the other cottages, and its rooms are considered the most attractive. The structure is built of brick having granite trimmings. An arched entrance opens into a spacious hall from which one ascends a broad staircase to the rooms above. The inside finish is in hard polished pine. Each room is provided with an open fire-place as in the other cottages. The building is heated by steam. The characteristics of the Andover cottage are its roominess and its light.

The Bancroft.

The quaint New England architecture is typified in the outlines of this structure, named in honor of Principal Bancroft. The features of the Bancroft are its deep window seats and book shelves built into the walls. The inside finish is in polished yellow pine, and all the rooms and halls are roomy and well lighted. The building is heated by hot air. The cottage has four double suites, two single suites, one single room and a double suite for a teacher. The house contains some improvements over the other buildings.

Track Athletic House.

One of the most valuable additions to the school is the Athletic House on the Running Track Campus. This building was built by the school and it has already proved of great aid to the base ball team and the track athletic men. Its hot and cold baths are open to all members of the school, and have been patronized from the first very generally. The building is two stories high. On the first floor is the heating apparatus, a lavatory and large lounging room, while on the second floor are the hot and cold baths and the lockers.

School Songs.

Fair Andover.

BY J. O. MORE,

Tune "Columbia, Gem of the Ocean,"

Fair Andover ! Star of New England,
The school of the rich and the poor,
The field for the strong and devout hand,
A shrine of pure wisdom and lore,
Thy renown gathers students around thee
When scholarship's aim comes in view ;
Thy athletes shall crown thee with victory,
And honor thy flag, white and blue.

Cho.—Oh, wave the good flag white and blue !
Oh, wave the good flag white and blue !
The school of Old Phillips forever !
Oh, wave the good flag white and blue !

Fair Andover ! Gem of New England,
Beloved of the young and the wise,
The charm of thy bowers and thy highlands
In song of thy praises shall rise.
As often in days gone forever,
Thy heroes, so brave and so true,
Proclaimed with victorious fervor
The palm for the good white and blue. [Cho.

Fair Andover ! Star of New England,
The school of the brave and the bold,
The Alumni's eternal devotion
Has gathered thy treasures of old.
And we'll add some new stars to thy colors,
Each year, as we gather anew ;
And we'll work for thy trophies and honors,
And cheer for the good white and blue. [Cho.

Fair Andover ! Gem of our country,
The school of our youth and glad days,
Too soon comes the hour we must leave thee,
And sever fore'er from thy plays.
O'er whatever wild seas we may wander,
Our friendship shall always be new,
Through ties of pure love that shall ever
Increase for the good white and blue. [Cho.

Victory.

BY J. O. MORE,

Tune "We'll Rally Round the Flag, Boys."

So we gather as of old, boys.
The victory to proclaim,
Waving the banner blue of Phillips ;
Let us cheer for our heroes
Who bravely won the game,
Bearing the banners blue of Phillips.

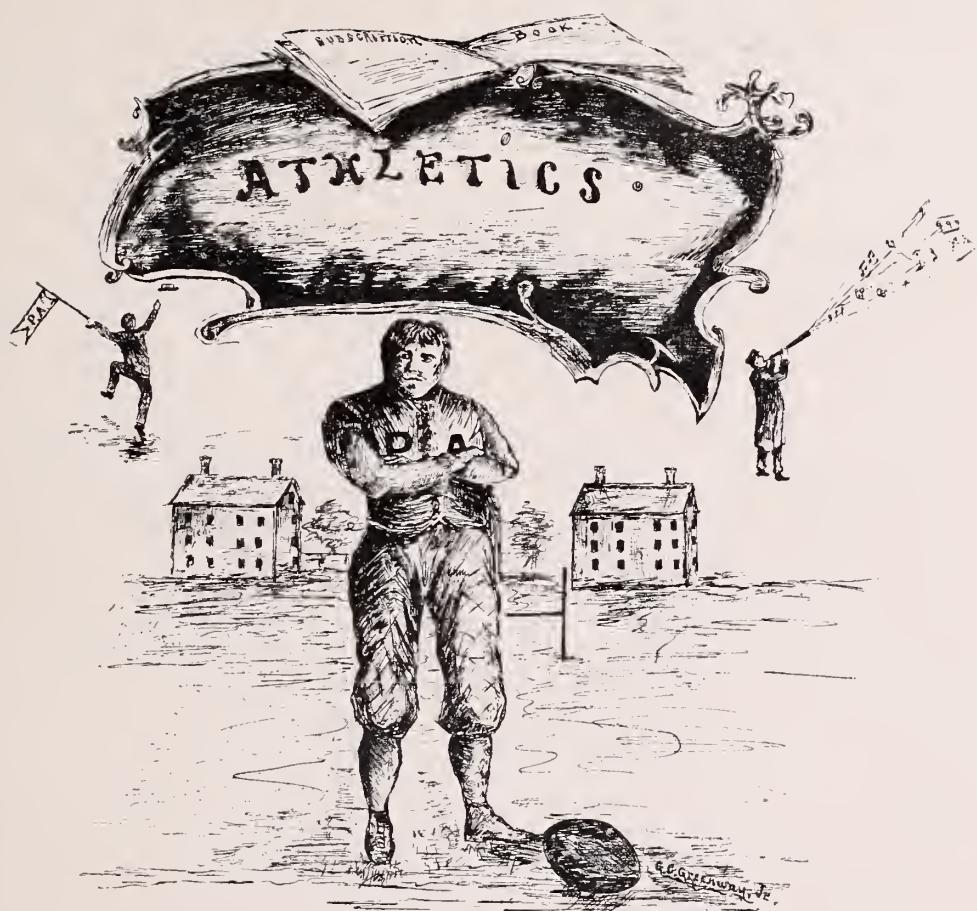

Cho...P. A., boys, forever! hurru, ho, hurru !
Down with the red and up with the blue !
So we gather round P. A., boys ;
We gather round P. A.,
Waving banners blue of Phillips.

Yes, they came from New Hampshire,
Four hundred strong in red,
Boasting they'd whip the boys of Phillips ;
They were taken with the blues,
And with sinking hearts they fled.
Leaving the field to good old Phillips.

[Cho.

Fancy and Fact.

I

Lazily swinging his sun-burned legs,
Whistling low.
A youth upon the meadow stile,
Is sitting and dreaming his dreams the while,
Lazily swinging his sun-burned legs
To and fro.

II

Languidly waving her bonnet gray,
Humming light.
A maiden leans on the other stile,
Across the meadow and dreams the while,
Languidly waving her bonnet gay
In dreamings bright.

III

Into the field of life they go,
Hope still sweet.
Ah, but the meadow is broad and wide,
Few of the paths lie side by side,
Into the field of life they go, never to meet.

Oct. 9. Andover-Exeter Tennis Tournament.

ANDOVER'S DOUBLE VICTORY.

On Saturday of this date our representatives in tennis, accompanied by a few friends, went to Exeter for the annual contest. Anderson was matched against Rand of Exeter in the singles. Rand won the opening games, Anderson playing unsteadily during the first set, but after this he settled down to careful work and won by the following score of the match : 6-4, 6-2, 6-0.

Allen and Millard in the doubles had for their opponents Read and Davis of Exeter. With the odds at first against them they played a cool, steady game, full of judgment, winning for us the doubles. Score 6-2, 7-5, 6-2.

Oct. 14. Columbus Day.

Mr. Freeman of the Faculty delivered a carefully prepared historical sketch appropriate to the anniversary.

Oct. 14. A Lecture on Rugby.—People's Course.

Mr. Fox of New Haven, who is always a popular lecturer with Andover audiences, gave an interesting talk on "Dr. Arnold and the Rugby School," illustrating his words by stereopticon views.

Oct. 15. Base Ball Game. P. A. vs Theologues.

A practice game of base ball was played between teams of picked men. Paige, Sedgwick and Boutwell took turns in pitching and Drew did the catching. The game served to show that there was excellent material in school for the spring work. The score was : P. A. 5, Theologues 9.

Oct. 22. The Cane Rush.

After much discussion as to the advisability of having a cane rush, '95 came out with a cane. The rush was a very close one and the lower class showed great strength in withstanding the middlers as they did. Had it not been for the unusually long cane, '95 would very probably have won the rush. As it was, the event was won by '94, who had 25 hands against the 22 of '95.

Oct. 24. Reading by George W. Cable,=People's Course.

We were treated to several selections from "The Grandissimees" by this celebrated author. The readings were from the following parts : I. "Raoul Innerarity exhibits the painting of 'Loesiana Rif' using to hauter de h' Union." II. "Bras Coupe." III. "Aurora and Chlatilde."

Nov. 4. Philo=Forum Joint Debate.

The first joint debate between our literary societies was successfully held in the academy hall before a large audience. As suitable to the time, the subject was a political one. Resolved "that the position of the Republican party on the tariff and the silver coinage questions is more worthy of support than that of the Democratic Party." Philo had the affirmative, her argument being opened with a tariff speech by C. P. Kitchel. W. B. Parker made the opening speech of Forum, taking the tariff part of the question. W. T. B. Williams spoke on the silver question. The debate for Forum was closed by W. F. Skerrye, and the Glee Club Quartette rendered several selections while the judges were in conference. Messrs J. H. Ropes, F. L. Whipple and B. C. Gilman judged the speakers, Mr. Ropes announcing that Forum had presented the best argument.

Total vote	-	-	-	-	-	390.

Nov. 12. Andover Falls=The Exeter Game.

For the first time in four years an Andover eleven yielded to Exeter.

Andover started the first V but the crimson men held her for four downs. Then the ball went from one side to the other and the lines gained now one way, now the opposite. At last, Exeter, after twenty-five minutes of severe pounding through the centre crossed her goal line, making the only touchdown in the first half. Exeter continued her plugging in the second half, and sent the men wriggling out from under the heap of players, till she had pushed the ball over again. The blue stockings of Hopkins, Millard and Rogers went tearing around the ends, and before anyone hardly knew it the pigskin was over our goal. Exeter seemed wholly unable to prevent Captain Hopkins rushes around her end. She made two more touchdowns and after a hard and valiant struggle time was called with the score 28 to 18 in our opponents favor. The teams lined up as follows:

Mrs. Bancroft assisted by ladies of the faculty tendered to members of the senior classes of Phillips and Abbot an exceedingly enjoyable reception.

Feb. 7. Clapp Lecture. "Hamlet."

Feb. 14. Clapp Lecture. "Antony and Cleopatra."

This lecture completed the course. The series this year were unusually good and the insight they offered of Shakespeare and his writings was most instructive and entertaining.

Feb. 15. First Base Ball Practice in the Gym.

About thirty candidates for the nine began light work in the Gymnasium. Most of the winter practice consisted of gymnastic exercises, sliding and pitching in the cage and runs when the weather permitted.

Feb. 18. Athletic House Opened.

The Athletic House, built under the auspices of the Athletic Association and situated on the Running Track Campus, was informally opened for use at this time. An account of the building is given under the head of "Athletics."

Feb. 27. Ramenyi Concert.

This entertainment was one of the musical treats of the winter. This programme was rendered.

Feb. 28. Senior Sleigh Ride:

The seniors took their annual ride after the usual send-off by the underclassmen.

Feb. 28. "The Life of a Viking." A Lecture.

Prof. Charles Sprague Smith began his first lecture of a course delivered under the Abbot Academy Alumni Fund.

March 2. "Calderon and the Spanish Drama."

This was the second lecture on literature by Prof. Smith.

March 4. "Petrarch." A Lecture.

Prof. Smith concluded his talks in Abbot Academy Hall before a large audience, showing himself thoroughly familiar with his subject.

March 6. "Brown University." An Address.

Under the auspices of Forum, President Andrews of Brown began the first of a series of talks on our colleges and universities. His subject was treated without prejudice and his talk was interesting to all interested in our universities.

March 15. School Meeting.

As an outcome of a movement for the consolidation of the athletic interests of the school, a meeting was held and the matter discussed at length after which a committee of ten was appointed to consider the plan and report to the school the first week of the spring term.

March 18. Preliminary Tournament.

The sparring and wrestling—the events of the Preliminary Tournament were hardly up to the standard this year. A manifest lack of training was apparent in all but a few of the bouts. It is to be hoped that next year the men entering will give more preparation to this meeting which should receive as much care as the final tournament.

March 20. "The Geological Work of Icc." A Lecture.

Dr. Harris continued his lectures with this subject. This lecture proved one of the most entertaining of the course.

March 21. Dramatical Entertainment.

At their club house the ladies of the November Club presented two exceedingly successful theatricals. First on the programme was a pretty comedy entitled "A Rice Pudding." Miss Hill, of Boston, favored the audience with several selections of song. The evening closed with "A Love Game," given by Miss Merrill of the club and Mr Berry of the Seminary.

March 22. The Winter Tournament.

Unusually adequate arrangements were made by the Athletic Association to accommodate the crowd which gathered in the old Gymnasium to see the indoor athletics. The attendance was exceptionally large and although no records were broken the events as a rule were well and skilfully contested. The order of the contests may be found under "Athletics."

March 23. Glee and Banjo Club Concert.

The annual concert of these musical clubs passed off auspiciously before a large audience in the Town Hall. The numbers rendered by the Banjo and Mandolin Clubs were particularly brilliant, and the topical song of the Glee Club was very popular with the audience and "The White and the Blue," and "Good Night" deserve particular mention for their merit. The programme was as follows :

PART I.
PAUL JONES' WALTZ,	De Koven.
MANDOLIN CLUB.

March 29. Winter Term Ends.

The Phillipian issued an illustrated souvenir number commemorative to their fifteenth anniversary.

March 29-April 7. Spring Vacation.

April 7. Spring Term Began.

At the close of the winter term, the base ball squad as usual remained in Andover. Several out-of-town games had been arranged, but owing to the unfavorable weather and some other causes, only one game was played in the holidays. This was with Harvard 'Varsity, and was the first game the team had played together. The three promising candidates for pitcher, Greenway, Sedgwick, and Paige were each given a trial of three innings apiece.

New York Alumni Association Banquet.

About a dozen fellows attended the annual banquet of New York Alumni, which was as pleasant an occasion as it usually proves to be. The large banquet hall of the Brunswick was tastefully decorated and many old Andover men were there assembled. Rev. David J. Burrell spoke to the toast of the Alumni and Mr. Wentworth responded to "Exeter," telling of the relationship of the two Academies. Col. Tucker explained the Mission of the Academy, and the Hon. R. R. Bishop told how glad the main Alumni association had watched the success of the New York association. Mr. A. H. Hardly spoke briefly of the financial state of the fund, after which C. P. Kitchel, '93, spoke for the school, and Captain Hinkey of Yale, P. A., '91, of our athletics.

April 17. Lecture on Geology.

Dr. Harris resumed his course of lectures on Geology, this time speaking of "The Geology on the Sea Shore."

April 21. One Hundred and Fifteenth Anniversary.

The Academy celebrated its 115th birthday on the 21st. As is customary, Dr. Bancroft related the most noteworthy events in the history of the school.

April 22. Experiment Showing Radiant Matter.

Under the auspices of the Natural History Society, Prof. Graves performed the delicate experiment with Crook's Tubes, showing the existence of radiant matter. The experiment was made in the lecture room of the Science Building and it was exceedingly interesting.

April 24. Geology Lecture.

Dr. Harris lectured in Abbot Academy Hall on the subject of "The Stratified Rocks."

April 24. Lecture on Yale.

Prof. Reynolds of Yale University continued the course of lectures arranged by Forum, speaking of "The ideals and aims of Yale University." He deviated somewhat from the previous lectures on colleges, dwelling very little on the history and alumni of the college, but speaking of Yale as she exists to-day. His lecture was concise and entertaining.

April 25. School Meeting.

The report of the committee appointed by the school to consider a plan of athletic union, was heard, and several speeches pro and con were made. The committee submitted a scheme for consolidation resembling in some respects that of Harvard and Yale. The name of the whole organization was to be "The Andover Athletic Association," consisting of the four departmental associations and managements and having its finances in charge of a graduate treasurer, as recommended by the committee.

The school received and adopted the report. The new management will begin next September. The constitution of the association is printed under the head of "Athletics" in this volume.

May 1. Lecture on Amherst.

President Gates addressed the school on "The distinctive marks and ideals of Amherst."

May 4. Means Prize Speaking.

The Means speaking was of the usual high quality of excellence.

May 9. Harvard Concert.

The musical clubs of Harvard presented an attractive concert in the Town Hall. The Banjo, Mandolin and Glee Clubs all contributed to a varied and entertaining programme.

June 2.

This year Andover was compelled to perform a very unpleasant duty, in protesting one of her opponents players. Andover had every reason to think that the catcher on the Exeter nine had at one time in his life "sustained his livelihood" by playing ball and was therefore not eligible, according to an agreement between the two schools to enter the contest for June 10.

Exeter refused to play without the gentleman in question and so both the base ball games and athletic tournament were omitted for this year. We hope it will prove a great help for the purification of athletics between the two schools.

June 6. Draper Speaking.

June 25. Baccalaureate Sermon. By Professor Harris.

June 26. Class Day.

June 27. Commencement and Graduation Exercises.

"A Latin Cut."

At the Ball.

With downcast eyes she lingers
As the violins play low,
Gently clasps her slender fingers,
While the blushes come and go.

Then emboldened I drew nearer,
Took in mine that hand of snow,
There she left it, 'twas her answer,
As the violins played low.

Masque Editors.

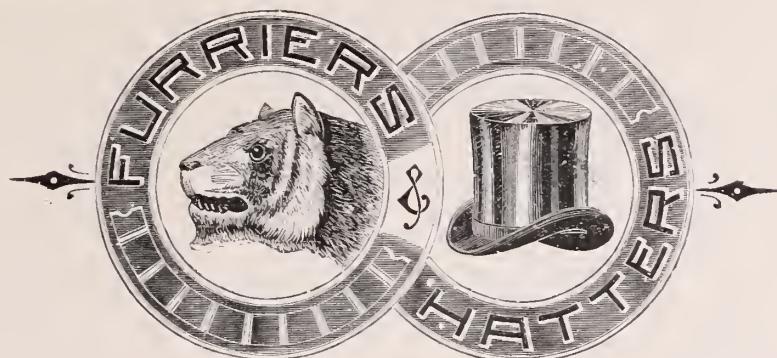

Here's a health to good old Phillips!
Let her ancient glory crown her
With the wreath her sons have woven
Thro' a hundred glorious years;
Let us drape her colors round her.
As in joyous throng we gather,
While her staunch old walls shall echo
With the thunder of our cheers.

And now upcn thy threshold,
Ere we enter on life's battle,
Alma Mater, our hearts thank thee
For the blessings thou'st bestowed;
And when the strife grows fiercest,
And stout hearts faint beside us,
May the memories of old Phillips,
Cheer us on the upward road.

A FAIR TRIAL

He is apt to remain our customer.

THE first time he wears the new Suit or Overcoat he has a consciousness of having gone back on his old tailor, and feels just a little uncertain about the success of the venture; but, let him keep his counsel and await the verdict of his family or friends.

Admiration of his clothes and inquiries for the name of his tailor will have a wonderfully reassuring effect; then he'll be ready to chuckle over the ready cash saved by the purchase.

The year 'round we have seasonable clothing from ROGERS, PEET & CO., unquestionably manufacturers of the best "ready-made" in the world. Here in Lowell we've cut deep into the tailors' patronage with these good clothes. We're near enough to Andover so that you may see them without much loss of time or money. If you're interested in getting as good clothes as you've been used to getting from a tailor, at about half the price you've been paying, we shall be glad to help you make the experiment.

We mean by "good," right fitting, rightly made, durable clothing.
